But you're not alone in fighting creatures. Toilets, cats and Lappy Source: iMore I mentioned earlier that this is a strange game and now I'm going to prove it. In each area of the game there is a hidden toilet, which, if found, will earn some rewards. There is also a toilet fairy in the police bathroom who will be very happy to receive toilet paper from you. Be sure to pass on the findings to the stall in order to reward them. If you give all 12 pieces of toilet paper to the fairy, something very good happens. Furthermore, cats are extremely prevalent in the game and can track them down across the Ark for fun. One of the fellow police officers had a soft spot for the cats and provided a dilapidated building in their home. After collecting cats, you'll be able to give them in this rundown location whenever you want. Finally, Lappy is the police mascot, in the form of a yellow dog with a wing and a police hat. Lappy makes different appearances throughout the game and even helps train. At some point, you can play lappy video games, find Lappy merchandise, or even do the dress yourself. But keep an eye out for this guy, he rides a line between hilarious and creepy, and he might randomly appear in the afterlife when you pay attention.
